

CLASSIC FLOW OF ORATORY IS TRIAL FEATURE

Counsel For Defense Delivers
Mastery Summary of Calhoun Trial

CLOSING ADDRESS TO BE DELIVERED TODAY

Defendant Moved to Laughter
At Figures of Speech Used
By Attorney Moore

SAN FRANCISCO, June 16.—With men and women scrambling and wrangling for standing room in the court room, Patrick Calhoun's explanation of the bribery indictment against him was practically submitted to the jury tonight, when A. A. Moore, senior counsel for the president of the United Railroads, promised to submit his case during the first hour of tomorrow's session.

As the five months trial approaches its climax, the dominant public interest is awakening at the point of eager demonstration and the behavior of the public at Calhoun's trial today surely taxed the patience of the dozen policemen stationed at the entrance. A still greater crush is looked for tomorrow when Moore concludes his address and the last arguments are begun by Henry.

Moore's Effort Masterly.
Moore's argument which has already lasted eight hours, was pronounced tonight by adherents of both sides a masterly review of the case. His power of denunciation, his sarcasm and his flights into classical realms evoked frequent murmurs of approval or laughter from the audience, and while the speaker openly confessed the weariness his hearers felt at the close of the long day, the attendance had not diminished when the hour of adjournment arrived.

Calhoun's Family Present.
Patrick Calhoun, whose wife, daughters and sons were present throughout Moore's address, relaxed his solemn department of the last few weeks and laughed openly at some of the speaker's metaphors. His friends, business associates, and the friends of his attorneys pressed him into the foreground, but throughout the day he never ceased to observe the wares and take full notes of the scene in the crowded sections behind him.

"Suppose, for the sake of argument that this money was shown to have been paid by Ford to Ruef," said Moore, when he made one of his sudden shifts of base. "Could anyone here called as a witness say that this payment was anything more than a surety for peace? Ruef was known to be the omnipotent power, not only controlling the supervisors but also in connection with the entire labor element of the city."

"However, this is all mere speculation. There is no evidence here that Ruef ever received a dollar from Ford for any purpose. Should we then, be forced to show what disposition was made of any sum entering into the transactions of the United Railroads? We are not here to account to Henry or any one else how we legitimately expended our money."

Attacks Agent Witnesses.
Moore referred to the immunity granted the supervisor's witnesses as, "a strange and old story when we look for a reason explaining the strange artificiality of this transaction." He continued, "It promises that these men were taken into the fold of Spruckles—under the outstretched wings of the graft prosecution—whatever that grisly horror may be. Gallagher and Nicholas were both swearing for their necks. There was a kind of bastard immunity given them—a sort of bunco game since pronounced illegal—that 'nearly approaches bribery itself.'"

At the time of the prosecution's argument, paying particular attention to the alleged discrepancies in the testimony of supervisors, to the claims that Spruckles wanted a rival street railway system and to the activities of the private agents of the prosecution.

TAFT IS INSISTENT FOR INCOME TAX

President's Message Received With Earnest Attention in Senate and Referred to Finance Committee—Bailey
Will Demand Provision for Graduation in Any Measure to Be Introduced

GORE ATTEMPTS TO FORCE REPORT FRIDAY BUT IS DEFEATED BY VOTE ALONG STRICT PARTY LINES

WASHINGTON, June 16.—The message of President Taft to the senate today, recommending the incorporation of a provision in the tariff bill for the taxation of the earnings of corporations and the adoption of the resolution looking to an amendment of the constitution to permit the levying of an income tax was regarded by senators of such importance as to place in the shade all questions pertaining strictly to the tariff schedules. The message was received early in the afternoon and was referred to the committee on finance.

Senator Root occupied the chair when one of the president's secretaries appeared with the message, but it was not presented until Senator Burton, who was speaking had concluded his remarks. A full senate was present and the document was given the most careful attention.

Gore attempted to have the committee instructed to report on the income tax feature of the message by next Friday when, under the general agreement, the income tax question is again to be taken up for consideration. His motion was, however, voted down and for the first time in many weeks the division was strictly along party lines.

During the informal discussion of the reference message, Bailey gave notice that he would demand that provision be made for a graduation of any income tax that might be provided and intimated that much time might be necessary to get through a provision which did not carry that qualification.

Adopts Philippine Tariff.
The senate adopted the finance committee's recommendation regarding the admission of Philippine products but not until after two or three amendments had been voted down. Foster of Louisiana, opposed the free admission of any Philippine sugar.

Aldrich presented the finance committee's substitute for the house zinc schedule and it received a major portion of the attention of the senate during the afternoon.

The committee amendment which was adopted, places a duty of fifty cents a ton on zinc ore containing not more than thirty per cent of zinc and with graduated duties up to $4 a ton on ore containing over fifty-five per cent zinc. The senate also agreed to the amendments placing a duty of one and one-third cents a pound on zinc in blocks or pigs and zinc dust; one and three-quarter cents a pound on zinc in sheets, and two cents on zinc sheets plated or coated, and one cent a pound on old and worn out zinc metal. This action concluded the consideration of the zinc provision and the metal schedules.

The committee's suggestions for changes in the silk schedules were also adopted.

Taft Outlines Plan.
Recommending two per cent tax on the net income of corporations and the adoption of an amendment to the constitution providing an income tax without an apportionment among the several states, President Taft today sent to congress a message embodying his views on the subject. The president speaks of the apparent inability of congress to agree to an inheritance tax, and as regards an income tax, refers to the decision of the supreme court in the case of Pollock vs. The Farmers' Loan and Trust company, in which the court held the tax to be unconstitutional unless apportioned according to population.

"It is," says the president, "undoubtedly a power which the government ought to have as it might be indispensable to the nation's life in a great crisis."

The amendment suggested provides for the imposition on all corporations and joint stock companies for profit, except National banks (otherwise taxed) savings banks and building and loan associations of an excise tax of two per cent on the net income of such corporations. The president points out that another merit to the tax on corporations is the federal supervision which it will give to the government and the stockholders and that the public will have knowledge of the real business transacted.

The message was brought into the senate while Senator Burton was speaking, and Senator Root being in the chair, ordered the reading of the document to be deferred until after the adjournment.

When the president's message was read, the subject of the measure was made known to both Republicans and Democrats remained in their seats and all listened attentively.

SHARP DEFENSE TO BE ALIBI

Accused Claims He Was In Bisbee Poker Game on the Fatal Night

(Special to Review.)
TOMBSTONE, June 16.—The entire time of the district court was today taken up by the trial of Walter Sharp for the murder of Joseph McDonald.

At the close of the proceedings for the day, when an adjournment was taken until tomorrow morning the prosecution had finished its direct case and the defense was well under way having examined five witnesses. At that time Sharp was under the fire of a cross examination by the prosecutors which will be resumed in the morning. It is said that at least one important witness for the prosecution has not yet been placed upon the stand and that a considerable amount of important evidence remains to be put in on the redirect examination by the prosecutor.

The defense is an alibi, Sharp claiming to have been playing poker in Shattuck's saloon in Bisbee on the night the crime was committed and until six o'clock the next morning.

Testimony is Damaging.
Two of the most important witnesses for the prosecution were W. M. Smith and Glen Filppen, both of whom testified to conversations with Sharp, which were extremely damaging to the defense.

Smith testified that the day after the crime was committed Sharp told him that he and another had held up the saloon and had killed the man, but he declared the defendant had refused to give the name of the other man who was implicated with him.

The testimony of Filppen was even more damaging, for he declared that the day before the murder Sharp had approached him and proposed that he join him in holding up a saloon. The one in question, the day after McDonald was murdered, according to the testimony of Filppen, he again met Sharp and the latter told him, "I pulled off that matter I was talking to you about, last night."

In his testimony Sharp denied these conversations and all of the evidence thus far introduced by the defense is in support of the alibi claimed, and to prove the presence of the defendant in Bisbee on the night in question.

WASHINGTON, June 16.—Forecast for Arizona, Thursday and Friday, generally fair.

be our imperative duty to revise them, not in the interests of protection, but for the opposite reason.

"The senator means in the interests of the consumer," suggested Senator Bacon of Georgia, correctly interpreting Mr. Aldrich to mean that of $80,000,000 of new revenue should be raised by levying a tax of 3 per cent on incomes in excess of $5,000, some necessities would have to go on the free list. In his brief remark Aldrich made it perfectly plain that he is against the income tax on their colossal earnings, but because it will interfere with the high wall of protection and prevent New England manufacturers from enjoying the benefits of monopolies on American markets.

Today England, France, Germany, Holland, Austria, Denmark, Switzerland, Australia, New Zealand and Japan all derive substantial revenues from taxes on incomes, a system based on the theory that those who get the most benefits out of the resources of the country should contribute a fair share to its support.

In 1908 the income tax in Great Britain was the greatest single source of revenue, exceeding the excise imports by $1,500,000 and the customs receipts by over $23,000,000.

Coachman and Footman Relate Stories of Saving
Her From Falling

NEW YORK, June 16.—Howard Gould did not go on the stand today to testify against his wife, Katherine Clemmons Gould, whose suit for separation he is opposing. Instead, there was a continuation of servant's gossip and accounts by menials of their former mistress' eccentricities humiliating details, as sworn to on the stand, of Mrs. Gould's alleged fondness for alcoholic beverages and her manner at such times when, what the witnesses said was the influence of liquor brought from her lips remarks ill suited to a woman's tongue.

It is but a reiteration and in some respects an amplification of yesterday's testimony, the basis of which was that at various times at "Castlegould" she had been intoxicated and had abused the servants, given arbitrary and unreasonable commands, and had used rather severe language in altercations with her husband.

An occasion when she would have fallen from her carriage, but for the protesting hand of a coachman, he attempted to drive through a close gate, a time when a footman saved her from falling while intoxicated, as he testified, were among the things alleged.

A carpenter, Herbert Trötter, was the last witness of the day. He said while he was working in the servant's quarters, Mrs. Gould rushed in and swore at the servants. "Her voice was shaky and incoherent, her hair disheveled and she was very profane. She was decidedly drunk," said the witness. "At another time she came into the stables while I was working there and swore at the grooms and was very drunk. She tried to go up stairs to the bedroom room, but could not navigate the steps."
